Herlin, Nov. 23.—The Mukden correspondent of the local Anzeiger sends the following:

"Reports of the death of Gen. Kuroki persist, in spite of denials, and are revived by Chinese coming from Japanese camps."

"Lieut. Schupkoff, just arrived from Port Arthur, reports that Japanese have laid out three lines of defenses, which the Japanese must capture before they can reach the city, after which the Russians can retire to coast forts, which are the strongest of all. The Japanese, which comprise more than 4,000 men, is in good spirits. Schupkoff believes the fortress can hold out at least until the end of January."

HIS ARREST WAS QUICKLY MADE

Alleged Murderer Wanted in Indiana Caught Here.

Shot a Neighbor After a Quarrel Over Allowing Cattle to Run at Large.

TAKEN BACK LAST NIGHT

Edgar Jarbo, of Mt. Pleasant, Perry county, Indiana, sat playing a fiddle at the home of his uncle, Elijah Jarbo, a short distance from the city on the Benton road, last night about 8 o'clock, when Officer Dick Wood, of Paducah, and Sheriff J. M. Cunningham, and Deputy E. Bryant, of Perry county, Ind., came in on him and arrested him for the murder of Henry Cody, in Indiana, last Sunday. The young man did not seem to be surprised, and says he will get out of the trouble all right.

It seems that the Jarbos and Codys live on adjoining farms in Perry county, Indiana, and have been having trouble over their stock.

Sunday both were in Liverpool, a small place near Mt. Pleasant, when a quarrel arose. Each accused the other of allowing his stock to invade the other's property, and after a few angry words they separated.

According to Jarbo's story, later in the day, he and his brother came upon Cody, who renewed the difficulty and assaulted the younger Jarbo, also advancing with a knife.

Jarbo then shot Cody in the stomach with a shot gun, and the wounded man lived about forty-five minutes. He made an ante-mortem statement that the shooting was with out justification.

After the shooting, it seems the Jarbo boys became frightened and left home on mules. They crossed the Ohio river at Stevensport, Ky., and the one arrested here came on to Henderson and then to Paducah. He reached here at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and first went to the home of his brother, Mike Jarbo, just above Mechanicsburg, afterwards going to his uncle's, a short distance beyond.

He talked freely to them of the shooting, and claimed to have fired in self-defense. He is about 26 years old and a widower. The dead man was about 28 years old and married. The Indiana officers suspected that Jarbo would come to the home of relatives here, and came on after him. Their prisoner agreed to return without a requisition, and they left with him on the 1:40 o'clock train.

Capt. Joe Woods, of the police force, and his men did good work in finding their man. It wasn't two hours after the Indiana officers arrived until they were at the city hall with their prisoner.

"SHOT ON Socialists Do Not Seem to Be 'Many' in Federation of Labor.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 23.—Disputes occupied most of the time of the American Federation of Labor yesterday. There was a ripple of yesterday's excitement in the proceeding when two resolutions introduced by Delegate Berger, the leader of the socialists, were presented for consideration. One of these provides for the abolishment of the militia as it now exists in the United States and the substitution of the Swiss system. The convention overwhelmingly defeated the measure.

The second socialist resolution asked the federation to go on record in favor of petitioning congress to pass a bill providing for an old-age pension for workmen. This was also defeated.

KILLED THE FAMILY

Did These Robbers When Interrupted in Their Work.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 23.—The town of Kikopol was last night the scene of a daring robbery and murder. The marauders entered the house of a wealthy merchant named Sakstein. When interrupted in their work the robbers killed Sakstein, his wife and five children, and escaped with much booty.

500 BULLETS WERE FIRED IN THE MELEE

Desperadoes on the Big Sandy Have Lively Time.

Shot a Man's Wife and Then Tore His House Down and Threw It in River.

NO ARRESTS YET MADE

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 23.—The community across the Big Sandy river from Yorkville, was the scene of a fatal feud during the night between the family of John Wallace and the Curry brothers. The latter were refused liquor at Wallace's saloon and when the Curry brothers began shooting, Wallace closed the saloon.

Later, the Curry brothers went to Wallace's home and demanded that Wallace come out. When Mrs. Wallace stated that her husband was not at home, the crowd broke in the windows. She fired into the crowd, fatally wounding Thomas Curry.

The crowd immediately began tearing down Wallace's home and seized a brother of Mrs. Wallace. They bound him and laid his head on a log. It is said one of the Currys was about to decapitate the boy when Wallace fired into the crowd and prevented the decapitation.

The crowd later resumed the destruction of Wallace's home, throwing the debris into the river. Mrs. Wallace was shot twice. She rode to Louisa, Ky., where she gave the alarm and the sheriff and deputies left for the scene of the trouble.

Wallace escaped to Yorkville. All his live stock was killed by the mob. It is estimated that 500 shots were exchanged and that ten members of the mob were badly injured.

JO SATISFIED

He Thinks He Will Win Senatorship in a Walk.

Blackburn Thinks Gov. Beckham Will Not Run and Ollie James Has Reached His Limit.

Washington, Nov. 23.—"The outlook is eminently satisfactory," said Senator Joseph C. S. Blackburn, of Kentucky, when he was asked about his prospects for re-election. "So far as I am concerned," he continued, "I can see nothing to prevent my getting another term; yes, there is just one thing when I stop to think about it and that is the possibility of my dying, but I cannot see there is any danger from that source, for I am feeling fine; never was in better health, in fact, so you see I have good reason for being satisfied with the outlook."

"How about Gov. Beckham?" the senator was asked.

"Oh, he is not in it; in fact, he is avowedly out of it, having declared he would not be a candidate for senator."

"Are Ollie James' aspirations causing you any anxiety?"

"I should say not," was Mr. Blackburn's cheery rejoinder. "Ollie is not worrying me any; it is as I told you, my friend, the field is clear and I am well satisfied with the outlook."

The senator is here for the approaching session, and is occupying his house on Nineteenth street.

Woodcock, rector of St. John's church here, and formally extended to him the call to the bishopric of Kentucky. Dr. Woodcock informed the committee that he was not yet ready to give an answer to the call. It is understood that Dr. Woodcock's answer will be given Monday.

FELL HEADLONG INTO BOILING VAT

Horrible Accident at Basket Factory Today.

Man Was Rescued by Fellow Workmen After He and Been Fatally Scalded.

SUFFERS UNTOLD AGONIES

J. W. Morefield, an employe of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket and Machine company, in Mechanicsburg, met with a horrible accident this morning which will result, it is thought, fatally.

Morefield was walking past a large vat of boiling water, used to "cook" logs, when in some manner he tripped and fell in. He screamed for help as he fell, clutching at everything in sight, but could not keep out of the water.

An his cries were heard several employes of the basket concern, one named Grogan, in particular, turned and saw Morefield splash into the steaming vat.

Grogan cried for help and the alarm brought several others to the assistance of the unfortunate man, who was pulled out within a few seconds after he fell in, but in those few seconds he had been fatally scalded, the physicians think, and can not survive many hours.

He was taken into the office of the plant, and Doctors J. S. Troutman and Bernice Winters summoned. They took off his clothes and applied soothing balms to allay the pain, but Morefield was suffering untold agonies and nothing seemed to allay his suffering.

After the doctors had dressed the man he was removed to his residence at 425 Ashbrook avenue and at present time was reported no better and suffering in great deal. He was burned from his feet to his neck and the skin had begun to come off when the doctors got to him. His cries from the intense pain were pitiful to hear and the accident caused general excitement in Mechanicsburg.

FATAL BURNS FOR SON OF BOB PEERY

Clothing Caught Fire at Blaze in Back Yard.

Mr. A. M. Barnett Badly Burned in Tearing Clothing off the Child.

RECOVERY IS IMPROBABLE

Johnny, the five year-old son of Robert Peery, of Lincoln avenue, near Worthen's addition, was fatally burned about 11 o'clock this morning by his clothing catching fire in the yard.

The little fellow was playing about when his clothing caught either from a fire under a big pot of water, or from a bonfire of leaves in the yard.

Mr. A. M. Barnett, of South Third street, was passing along when a lady screamed that the child was burning to death. He rushed around and found the child with its clothing a sheet of flames.

As quickly as possible he began to tear the flaming garments off, until he had the little fellow free of them, being so badly burned on both hands and arms that he has to carry his hands in bandages.

Drs. Bass and Coolidge were called and rendered all the aid possible, but it is likely that the burns will result fatally, as the doctors do not seem to think there is much hope.

A feature of the case unusually sad is that the child's mother is dangerously ill from typhoid fever, and may not recover, especially after this shock. At last accounts, the child was still alive, but it was the opinion could not live more than a few hours.

UNANIMOUS VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

Is Suggested by Gov. Chamberlain, of Oregon.

Eighteen Arrests Made in Denver for Alleged Election Frauds November 8th.

THE GOVERNOR OF ALASKA

Salem, Ore., Nov. 23.—Gov. Chamberlain, a democratic worker for Judge Parker, suggests that democratic members of the electoral college cast their votes for Theodore Roosevelt for president, making his election unanimous.

His says Roosevelt is the most popular man in the United States, and that a unanimous vote would do more than anything else to remove the line separating the north and south.

Colorado Frauds.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 23.—The republicans last night secured the arrest of 18 officials on a charge of violation of the election laws. The democrats were unprepared for this latest move in the gubernatorial contest, and had no time to institute retaliatory issues.

Governor of Alaska.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Official announcement was made today that Governor Brady will be reappointed governor of Alaska.

Secretary Taft Sailed.

Pensacola, Fla., Nov. 23.—Secretary Taft and party arrived here this morning on the Dolphin, from New Orleans. They sailed for Panama at noon on the Columbia.

FATHER REFUSED

And the License Had to be Taken From the Happy Couple.

Marriage Scheduled for this Evening May Not Take Place.

Mr. Peter Blschoon and Miss Euliah Clark yesterday obtained a license in the county clerk's office here to wed. The ceremony was to have taken place tonight at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Clark, on South Fourth street, the South Third street Methodist minister officiating, but now it will not.

The mother gave her consent to the marriage, the bride being under age.

The father, it seems, who does not reside with the others, heard of it and came to the city today to formally object to the issuance of the license. As he had not given his consent, the county clerk had to send to the couple and get back the license.

It is still at the court house, and the father at present time was still obdurate, and declared he would not allow the license to be issued.

It is likely that the couple will go to Tennessee or Illinois to wed. Mr. Blschoon is a popular grocer and the young lady is one of the South Side belles. The case is the first of its kind on record here.

GOV. PEABODY WILL MAKE THINGS HOT

Republicans of Colorado Intend to Expose Fraud.

It is Expected That Enough Will Be Shown in Denver Alone to Elect Peabody

9,000 MAY BE THROWN OUT

Denver, Colo., Nov. 23.—Gov. Peabody's purpose in refusing to concede Adam's election is plain, and democrats who have said Peabody was bluffing are thoroughly alarmed. Peabody really means to try to be governor.

The revelation of the policy Peabody and friends intend to pursue to try to seat him was made plain when Attorney Hersey and Waldron, for the republican party, made a motion in the supreme court asking that the election commissioners be enjoined from certifying any returns whatsoever from precinct 8, ward 7, city and county of Denver. The court set the hearing of the motion for Wednesday, November 30.

The significance of the motion lies in the fact that if it is granted similar motions will be made to throw out every precinct in Denver and also in many other parts of the state. Nine thousand votes are to be thrown out in the entire state, and this will elect Peabody.

Of course, the democrats will make motions, but the supreme court contains two justices who are Peabodyites and one Adams man. Republicans assert it is the only way the court can convert the fraudulent election into a fair one.

To install thoroughly into the public mind the fact of gross frauds in Denver is the real purpose of recent heavy sentences for election frauds. Republicans hope the public will then sustain the supreme court's proposed action in throwing out approximately 9,000 votes. Non-partisan citizens believe the supreme court will throw out enough votes to seat Peabody.

Parker to Hold On.

New York, Nov. 23.—Alton B. Parker and his recent campaign managers dined at the Manhattan club Members of the club declared that plans for maintaining the Parker organization in national and state politics were discussed, and an exchange of views continued until a very late hour.

The program, according to the same sources of information, contemplates holding on, if possible to the present national committee, so as to make sure of control of the presidential convention of 1908, as well as the state committee, which will pass upon the roll of delegates to the state convention two years hence.

Newspaper Man Gets Place.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Francis E. Leupp is to succeed William A. Jones as commissioner of Indian affairs.

Mr. Jones' resignation to take effect January 1, is in the hands of the president, who accepted the same, and authorized the announcement of Mr. Leupp's succession to the position.

Mr. Leupp is a well-known Washington correspondent, who has been in favor at the White House for some time. He is a good friend of the president, and the author of several books on civil service and political economy, as well as of a life of the president, entitled "The Man Roosevelt."

$10,000,000 Is Wanted.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The House committee on rivers and harbors will meet here Monday to take up the first draft of the river and harbor appropriation bill which is to be reported to the house before the Christmas holidays. Present indications are that the measure will carry about $40,000,000.

Rockport, Mass., Nov. 23.—The new armored cruiser Pennsylvania is off today on a speed trial on the Lower Cape Ann course. The atmosphere is hazy and observation from the shore is difficult.

FATAL QUARREL AT SHAWNEETOWN

Chas Broeg Kills His Father-in-law, Capt. Redeck.

A Nebraska Robber Shoots a Bank Cashier and Is Caught While an Automobile.

THE NAN PATTERSON CASE

Shawneetown, Ill., Nov. 23.—Following a family quarrel Charles Broeg, Jr., shot and instantly killed Capt. E. D. Redeck, his father-in-law. Earlier in the day Redeck quarreled with his wife. Broeg's wife and a younger son taking the part of the mother. Redeck left the house and on returning found Broeg assisting to pack some furniture in front of Redeck's home. Redeck ordered Broeg away and upon the latter's refusal to go, it is alleged, fired twice at him. Broeg then drew a revolver and fired at Redeck, one bullet going through his head and another through his left breast. Before falling Redeck is said to have fired a third shot. Broeg was uninjured and was arrested.

Shot the Cashier.

Norfolk, Neb., Nov. 23.—A robber held up Cashier Barney Schroder to rob the Platte Center bank at Platte Center during the noon hour yesterday, seriously shot Cashier Schroder and escaped in a buggy.

Sheriff Carrig and posse captured him last evening after a hot chase in an automobile. The robber was overhauled after he took a close range shot at Charles C. Englehorn, whose horse aided him throw Englehorn into a barbed wire fence, where he received severe injuries.

The robber was taken back to Platte Center and Sheriff Carrig had hard work to save him from mob violence. He was positively identified by Schroder. The man gives the name of "Billy" Holden, and says he has been working in beet fields near Oronoe for about two months. His home, he says, is in Michigan.

Glimsly Scene in Court.

New York, Nov. 23.—Severely unusual features were presented in the supreme court yesterday in the trial of Nan Patterson for the alleged murder of Caesar Young.

During the day the skeleton and two pieces of skin from Young's second finger were produced in court by the prosecution. The skeleton was shown in order that the course of the bullet that killed Young might be traced. The state, it is understood, expects to use the pieces of skin in refuting the suicide theory.

The introduction of these exhibits caused a sensation and for a time Miss Patterson was on the verge of collapse.

Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon who performed the autopsy said the cause of death was a hemorrhage of the left lung resulting from a bullet wound. By means of the skeleton he showed the direction taken by the bullet.

In the trial of Nan Patterson today the testimony of a physician went to show that Young could not have fired the shot himself.

Big Rewards Offered.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 23.—The Omaha Civic Federation has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the persons guilty of the attempt on the lives of Elmer E. Thomas and his family, whose home was wrecked by explosion of a dynamite bomb.

The Bar association held a meeting and condemned the act by resolution, and will later offer additional reward for the capture of those responsible for the explosion.

Two local papers have also offered a reward aggregating $1,500 for the capture of the dynamiters.

BADLY TREATED

Little Son of Mr. G. E. Hank
Seized by Negro.

Dragged Several Blocks But Released
When Officer Approached.

Master Gus Hank, the nine-year-old son of Mr. G. E. Hank, of Sixteenth and Trimble streets, had an exciting experience with an unknown negro, who was either drunk, mean or crazy, last night just after dark, and when found by Mr. Dick Tolbert, the popular I. C. special officer, was frantic and on the verge of nervous prostration, so badly was he frightened.

The boy had been sent to a neighbor's near Sixteenth and Harrison streets for milk, with his little sister, and arriving at the house met another child and decided to go out in the street and play until his sister got the milk.

The boys played until nearly dark and then separated and when the Hank boy started to return home, was accosted by a negro and dragged for several blocks, afraid to shout because of the negro's threats of punishment. He was carried in the vicinity of Seventeenth and Jefferson streets when Mr. Tolbert, who lives in that neighborhood, came up and found the boy wandering about in a high state of nervous excitement. He grabbed Officer Tolbert about the legs and fairly hugged him, so great was his delight at escaping from the negro. He informed the officer that he was lost, but said nothing about the negro until he had gotten home. The boy said the negro released him when he saw the officer coming.

FOUR DAYS

IS THE LENGTH OF THE SCHOOL
HOLIDAY, BEGINNING TODAY.

This afternoon at 12:45 the pupils in the public schools were dismissed for the remainder of the week and will not have to go to school again until Monday morning.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving and a legal holiday and as the First District Teachers' Association meets Friday and Saturday, Friday was made a holiday by the board for the accommodation of the teachers.

The teachers are making great preparations for the association meeting and have prepared interesting and excellent exhibits of work done by their pupils. These exhibits are fair examples of the work done by the pupils and show the wonderful progress made by the teachers.

There seems to be an impression among the people in general that the association meetings Friday and Saturday are not public and Supt. Lieb wishes to state that they are public except the meeting Friday evening, which is a reception only for those invited. All are invited to the other meetings and the teachers will be glad to see anyone who cares to come in and see the exhibits and attend.

PEPSIN SYRUP CO.,
Monticello, Ill.

Gentlemen:

I am more than pleased to recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for any one suffering from organic disorders. Late hours, irregular meals at different hotels, excessive work and continual loss of sleep so upset my digestive organs that it was next to impossible to sing my roles.

To appear to the best advantage in my work, a healthy physique is absolutely essential. At the suggestion of a friend I tried several bottles of your Syrup Pepsin. I never felt better than at present.

It is now one of my fixed rules to carry a bottle of your medicine in my traveling case. For the benefit it has done me I feel under lasting obligations.

Very sincerely yours,

WILLIAM G. ROGERS.

ATTORNEY WORTEN

Says the Police Try to Intimidate His Clients.

Denies That He Ever Brought a Suit
for Anyone Without Authority.

Attorney J. M. Worten denies that he brought a suit for George Wright, colored, or anyone else without authority, and declares that there is no cause for the published statements to the contrary, for their incorrectness could easily have been proven had there been any desire to get the facts. Attorney Worten said further:

"The facts are, the police officers of the city have been very busy exerting themselves quite a good deal, in an effort to intimidate my chain gang clients, and to frighten them out of town, if possible, and have availed themselves of every opportunity to oppress and force them to abandon their suits. Many of them have been arrested by the police officers, carried to the police station, locked up and held over night, and turned loose the next morning without any charge of any kind whatever being preferred against them, or without any offense whatever having been committed; and many others have been tried in the police court on charges preferred by the police officers, and acquitted. Less than a week ago one of my clients was arrested on a charge of felony, upon a warrant sworn out by a policeman, and was told 'That that was what he was getting for the suit he had that day, or the day before, filed against the city.'

"Under these conditions it is possible in this case that the negro, George Wright, who perhaps did not know that his suit had really been filed at the time he was pressed by the police authorities (a matter that was in no way any part of their business), may have been evasive about giving them the details of his private affairs—but I have his written contract and authority all right, for bringing the suit, and have had it for quite awhile, signed in his own handwriting, and executed in my office on his own application. He happens to be rather an intelligent negro, able to write a pretty fair hand, and writes his name with as much grace and ease as a bank cashier. In ten minutes after the police were after him, about the suit he had filed he was in my office to tell me what had happened, and asked me if they could give any trouble about it, as well as to verify his petition, which he did."

CURED CONSUMPTION.

Mrs. W. B. Evans, Clearwater, Kan., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said that he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

SERVICE AND SOCIAL RECALLED.

The first Cumberland Presbyterian church had announced a Thanksgiving Social and service on Thursday night, but on account of the ill health of the rector, Rev. Geo. O. Bachman, the meeting will not be held. The Wednesday night prayer meeting will be conducted as usual.

Best Liniment on Earth.

Henry D. Baldwin, Supt. City Water Works, Shullsburg, Wis., writes: "I have tried many kinds of liniment, but I have never received much benefit until I used Ballard's Snow Liniment for rheumatism and pains. I think it the best liniment on earth." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

MEN WE KNOW

Where Some of the Methodist Ministers are to go.

Healthy Advance Shown in All Lines of Church Work.

The report of the various Memphis conference boards, mission church extension, etc., made at Jackson, Tenn., showed a healthy growth along the lines of work. Much interest was evinced in the fund for worn-out preachers, their widows and orphans and the $8,000 was raised in full. The M. E. church, south, has undertaken to raise a $5,000,000 endowment fund for his purpose, and about $200,000 has already been secured on it.

The Ministerial Aid Association was merged into the Methodist Preachers' Brotherhood and Rev. H. B. Johnston, formerly of Paducah, was made conference secretary of this work, which is a voucher for it being well and accurately looked after.

Rev. J. W. Irion, formerly of Trimble street Methodist church, who married Miss Kate McGlathery, of this city, was returned to Dyer Station. Rev. W. O. Sellers, formerly of Paducah, was made conference missionary secretary in place of Rev. W. K. Piner, D. D., transferred.

The following ministers were transferred to other conferences: Rev. J. W. Lawrence to South Georgia conference; A. N. Walker to the St. Louis conference; T. P. Clark, G. M. Barton and W. A. Swift to Little Rock conference; A. O. Holder to Louisiana conference; R. M. Walker and B. E. Thomas to Little Rock conference; W. K. Piner to Indian mission conference.

WILL CLAIM SALARY.

Prof. James Hughes, teacher at Tyler, suspended by County Superintendent Ragsdale, says that he will claim the salary for his school for every day he is suspended and the case is not settled by the higher authority, the state superintendent. At present the school is closed, but when a new teacher is secured Prof. Hughes says he or she may get no pay for teaching, because if his suspension is unjust, which he claims it is, he will be entitled to the salary.

BOARD OF WORKS MEETS.

The regular meeting of the Board of Public Works will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock with a lot of routine work to come up. It is understood that City Engineer L. A. Washington will recommend the acceptance of the Husband street grading and graveling done by Contractor Terrell.

HUNGARY MAY REVOLT AGAINST RULE OF AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT

Buda Pesth, Nov. 23.—Everything is in readiness to meet the revolution which may break out at any moment. The whole garrison is ready to emerge from the barracks, every soldier carrying forty rounds of ammunition.

Mobs of excited men and women are parading the streets, and the members of the opposition in the Hungarian diet have sworn to eject Prime Minister Tisza and the chairman of the house, Baron von Hoy, should they dare to show themselves in the meeting house. Twice the prime minister was mobbed in the streets and the police had to fire several shots in the air to drive the people back. Since yesterday more than 150 persons have been arrested.

STILL DESPAIRING

River Men Have No Hope of a Rise Soon.

The Conditions Elsewhere Are Not Reassuring.

The river here is falling now. It fell a tenth night before last and a tenth last night, and is now four tenths of a foot on the gauge with no water in sight.

The river in other places is as follows:

Cairo, 7 2—0.4 fall.
Obstantoga, 0.9—0.1 fall.
Cincinnati, 8.7—0.1 fall.
Kavanaugh, 1.4, stand.
Florence, zero—0.1 rising.
Johannsville, 0.3—0.1 rising.
Louisville, 0.2 stand.
Mt. Carmel, 0.7 stand.
Pittsburg, 5.3—0.4 fall.
St. Louis, 6.3—0.2 fall.
Mt. Vernon, 0.9, stand.
Paducah, 0.4—0.1 fall.

Today the Key City did not go to Cairo because she did not come in from Cairo last night. She is supposed to be somewhere below unless she dried up and blew away.

The City of Charleston went up the Ohio today as far as Elizabethtown, Ill., but there is no telling when she will be back.

The Luna Warren is expected back tonight from Tennessee river and if she comes will probably return at 6 p. m., her regular time.

Fire destroyed the wreck of the Pineford Sunday afternoon near Cairo, Ill. It was lodged on the old Illinois Central incline at East Cairo when abandoned some time ago.

Inquiries are already being made at Pittsburg regarding rates to the coming Mardi Gras at New Orleans. No preparations have been made more than to decide that the Queen City will make the New Orleans trip. The trip will consume twenty-one days, allowing seven days to go to New Orleans, four days in that city and ten to make the return trip. A petition has been sent to Emperor Francis, Joseph asking for the dismissal of Prime Minister Tisza, signed by all the members of the opposition, Kossuth's signature heading the list. The threat is openly made to the emperor that if he does not ask for the resignation of Tisza within forty-eight hours revolution will break out and the kingdom of Hungary will tear itself loose from Austria and form an independent republic. The revolution committee is in possession of plenty of money, most of it sent by Hungarians in America, and has promise of much more from Hungarian revolutionary societies throughout the United States.

days to make the return trip.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal says: "As soon as the water rises to a boating stage in the Ohio river, Memphis will have a through traffic arrangement from Cincinnati and Pittsburg, and Mississippi river points as far south as Vicksburg and Arkansas river points as far up that stream as Pine Bluff and Little Rock. Capt. J. T. Ellison, superintendent of the Pittsburg and Cincinnati Packet Company, has been elected to succeed Capt. R. W. Wise as commercial agent for the connecting lines of boats at Cincinnati and Pittsburg, and will at once assume his duties. The arrangement will also include a through rate from Pittsburg and Cincinnati to Cairo, and thence to St. Louis. From upper river points the freight will be brought to Memphis and transferred for the lower Mississippi and for Arkansas river points."

MUCH ITCH

Doctors Report Many People are Being Treated.

One Tells How the Malady Once Spread Over This Section.

"I see where the Chicago doctors are reporting an epidemic of itch in Chicago, and Paducah is experiencing the same ailment at present," a well-known local physician declared this morning as he sat and absent-mindedly scratched his hands which were covered with small red spots, all itching very badly.

"Now I have got the itch, and am treating dozens of cases of it now," he continued. "This dry spell seems to promote it and the cases which have come under my observation are what I term prairie itch and whenever you scratch any of the irritated parts of your body and then scratch some other place, you carry the itch to the new place. This is what makes it hurt so bad and get all over a person's body. Years ago I can remember an epidemic of prairie itch which was prevalent all along the Tennessee river and I used to have a special prescription made up to give to my patients in Paducah."

"A well-known steamboat man, Capt. Jack Sleeth, had the itch and came to me for treatment. I cured him with one or two applications and he bought the prescription, had several buckets full fixed up and took it to the Tennessee river with him. The first trip he made he disposed of all his lotion before he had gotten half way up and on his return got many more more buckets full. I don't know how much of this stuff he did sell, but people all along the Tennessee river were using it."

In fact, all doctors in Paducah report a great deal of itch. It seems to be promoted by the dry weather and is very painful. It is a sort of miliarial rash and starts with small red pinches which itch until scratched and then rise and form a white lump. This is the regular malarial, or prairie itch.

INTERESTING, IF TRUE.

You Can Try It For Yourself and Prove It.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs or other wholesome food, and this claim has been proven by actual experiment which anyone can perform for himself in the following manner: Cut hard-boiled eggs into very small pieces, as it would be if mince, place the egg and two or three of the tablets in a bottle or jar containing warm water, heated to 98 degrees (the temperature of the body), and keep it at this temperature for three and one-half hours, at the end of which time the egg will be as completely digested as it would have been in the healthy stomach of a hungry boy.

The point of this experiment is that what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do to the egg in the bottle it will do to the egg or meat in the stomach, and nothing else will rest and invigorate the stomach so safely and effectively. Even a little child can take Stuart's Tablets with safety and benefit if its digestion is weak and the thousands of cures accomplished by their regular daily use are easily explained when it is understood that they are composed of vegetable essence, aseptic pepsin, dinstase and Golden Seal, which mingle with the food and digest it thoroughly, giving the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate.

Dieting never cures dyspepsia, neither do pills and cathartic medicines, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines.

When enough food is eaten and promptly digested there will be no constipation, nor in fact will there be disease of any kind, because good digestion means good health in every organ.

The merit and success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are world-wide and they are sold at the moderate price of 50 cents for full-sized package in every drug store in the United States and Canada, as well as in Europe.

MEET IN TOWN

THE COUNTRY SESSIONS OF THE MEDICAL SOCIETY ARE OVER.

The first city meeting for several months of the McCracken County Medical society will be held tonight in the offices of Drs. Taylor and Coleman in the Columbia building.

During the summer months the meetings are held in the country, where there is plenty of fresh air for the members to enjoy a day of recreation. The papers are read in the open air, the dinner made a feature of the meeting and these summer meetings are by far the most enjoyable possible to have.

When the fall sets in the meetings are brought to the city and held here throughout the winter months. This being the first meeting, no papers have been assigned and the meeting tonight will be simply to outline the work for the next meeting. Papers and topics of discussion will be assigned tonight and it is expected there will be a big attendance.

HURT ON CAR

TWO CAME TOGETHER ON LOWER BROADWAY—MRS. B. WOLFF INJURED.

Yesterday afternoon a Trimble street car ran into the Jackson street car at First and Broadway, the accident being attributed to the failure of the brake to properly work, and Mrs. B. Wolf, of Sixth and Trimble streets, reports she was painfully injured in the accident.

Mrs. Wolf and two other ladies, strangers to her, were in the car when it struck and she was thrown against a glass which was broken by the blow. She escaped being cut but this morning found that she was sorely bruised about the arms and shoulders. The other ladies did not seem to be injured. The cars were not damaged, the collision being very slight but sufficient to throw the passengers out of their seats.

INHERITED SCROFULA

When a child I had a very severe attack of Diphtheria, which came near proving fatal. Upon recovery the glands of the neck were very much enlarged, and after the free use of iodine, the right one was reduced to its normal size, but the left one continued to grow—very slowly at first, until it was about the size of a goose egg, which began to press on the windpipe, causing difficult breathing, and became very painful. An incision was made and a large quantity of pus discharged. The gland was removed, or as much as could with safety be taken out. For ten years I wore a little piece of cloth about an inch long in my neck to keep the place open. During this time I had to have it cut open by the doctor every time I took cold or the opening clogged. In the Spring or early Summer of 1884 I was persuaded by my wife to use S. S. S., which I did, strictly in accordance with directions. I took twenty-six large bottles, and was entirely cured, for I have not suffered since that time.

Let our lives be pure snow-fields,

The Weather.

Fair tonight and Thursday.

THE DONKEY'S PROBLEM.

Not a very optimistic view of democracy's prospects is taken by Collier's Weekly, of New York, which in its last issue observes:

"The donkey has a problem that is by no means an easy one. What shall he do to regain the confidence which the party was wont to inspire in the days before its demeanor led the great cartoonist Nast to identify the organization with the jackass?
In those eastern democrats who are in every essential like republicans there lies no hope. In a man like Bryan, however truly he represents the democratic mood, we fear there lies no hope, because his mind works inaccurately. He can not seem to attack abuse without attacking safeguards. He seeks to diminish the just powers of money by making money bad instead of good, by making it unstable instead of fair and steady. He seeks to introduce his policies, not only by the just method of legislation, but by electing judges on political grounds and shortening their terms, which is a sure way of making politics count more and law less. He is a fuzzy-headed man, although a man of magnetism, power, and purpose. When he has an issue at once reasonable and moral he is very strong. During the convention at St. Louis, Chairman Head of Tennessee, argued that the Hopkins delegates should be seated from Illinois, because, although they were fraudulently elected, none of the delegates could stand the searchlight to which the Illinois men were being subjected. Mr. Bryan's reply to that weakly dishonest attitude, and his whole conduct during the convention, was a relief from the cheap mediocrity of many of the democratic leaders. It was leagues above the Hills, Belmonts, and McCarrens who finally prevailed, and who divided authority during the campaign with a few newspapers which circulated in Judge Parker's neighborhood. What is needed by the democracy is a man as enthusiastic and magnetic as Mr.
Bryan, and as thoroughly convinced of the need of changes, with a great deal clearer head. We fear that Mr.
Bryan is incapable of learning anything. The man who shall take his place as leader of the real democrats
—the democrats who differ from republicans—can have little to do with personal adventures like Hearst or cranks of the kind led by Watson.

He must be at once radical, intelligent, and honest."

MADE A HIT.

President Roosevelt made a great hit with the German press in his speech last week on the unveiling of the Frederick the Great statue. The president always makes a favorable impression with those who give him a fair and unbiased hearing, but the tone of the German press over his latest speech is most pleasing to the people of a country that has so many Germans among its best citizens, as we have.

The semi-official German Gazette, which may be taken in this instance
as representing general opinion, says:

"In Germany the celebration and particularly President Roosevelt's address will leave a lasting impression. The profound insight with which the president as a historian did justice to the personality of the great king and general and described his heroic and unwearied self-sacrifice for a great political idea fills us in Germany with warm sympathy. We fully understand the position the president as a clear-minded statesman assigns to the United States in its political relationship to various European nations whose emigrants for three centuries have found a home beyond the ocean and there have been blended into one indivisible whole, which as a thoroughly specific individuality is making itself felt more and more on the world's stage.

"Our people and the American nation are really not rivals. On the other hand they supplement each other in more than one salutary direction. If misunderstandings have occurred here and there it is satisfactory to record that the clouds which formerly obscured good relations between the two great peoples have been dissipated."

TO PASS ON POWERS CASE.

The court of appeals is soon to pass on the Caleb Powers case. It is likely that the honorable court, in view of the travesties of justice known as the "trials" of this persecuted young man, will again reverse the findings of the lower court, and order a new trial. The country is now well aware of the manner in which Caleb Powers was sentenced to his death, and Kentucky cannot afford to—and we believe will not—allow herself to go on record as sanctioning such a miscarriage of justice.
We believe Caleb Powers will some day get a fair trial. He has never had one yet but he would now stand a better chance of getting one than ever before.

The board of works is soon to take up the city light plant question. The city of Paducah has always had inferior and inadequate street lights, and has them still. They have cost a great deal of money, last year
each of the 157 street lights costing over $100 for the year. Yet these lights a great part of the time were run on the "moonlight schedule," a plan worthy of only a mossback administration, and there has always been complaint of Paducah's miserable lighting facilities. It is understood that Paducah can get more lights and better lights for a great deal less money than the city is now paying, by having them furnished under private contract. If this is true, it is to the interest of the people that the board of public works instead of trying to devise some plan for sinking $20,000 or more into what is already a failure, make an investigation and find out what is the cheapest and best plan for getting satisfactory street lights. There may be opposition to patronizing a private utility, if this should be necessary to get cheaper and better lights, but it is not likely that the taxpayers will care where the lights come from, so they are as good as, or better than,
the present lights, and do not cost as much. It is a matter in which every citizen and taxpayer is vitally interested, and the board of works should use judgment and common sense, neither of which has yet been used to any noticeable extent, in managing the city light plant here.

Theatrical Notes

The Jeffersons in "The Rivals" at the Kentucky theater last night gave one of the finest performances ever seen here, but had a very small audience. This noted play should have drawn a large house, even had it not been presented by a company of such exceptional merit. The work of William W. Jefferson as "Bob Acres" and that of P. J. Paget as "Mrs. Mala-prop" was as fine as any ever seen in Paducah, while that of the other members of the company was as good as could be desired.

"Uncle Josh Perkins" has scored a success this season unprecedented in recent years. It is to be given here in all its entirety by the original company which first carried it on to prosperity and popularity. Tonight at The Kentucky.

Harry Beresford, is to appear in his laughing success, "Our New Man," Saturday matinee and night.
In no play among the whole gamut of comedies could this actor find greater opportunity for the display of his versatile talents than he is said to do in this charming laugh producer.

The author of "Ghosts" is the Norwegian dramatist, Henrik Ibsen, who has been described as the greatest dramatist of the nineteenth century. He is great because he has profound, unerring knowledge of human nature.
His characters are living, breathing human beings. In "Ghosts" the audience watches the development of the domestic tragedy replete with most intense situations. It will be seen in this city at The Kentucky tomorrow matinee and night.

CRACK PLAYER

HARRY BAY IS WITH THE "JOSEPH
PERKINS" COMPANY HERE
TODAY.

A pleasant and talented member of the "Joseph Perkins" company in Paducah today, and at the Kentucky tonight, is Harry Bay, one of the best known baseball players in the country.
He is center fielder of the Cleveland, Ohio, American Association team and is known all over the circuit, where he is very popular. In fact, Harry is a very versatile and popular young man wherever he goes. He plays in the "Rube" band that paraded the streets today and drew a large crowd, and has a prominent part in the performance, as well as being a part owner of the show. He will not play ball in Paducah next year, but he will play a good part here tonight and will doubtless be seen by a large crowd, as he has already met many of the ball fans and has made many friends.

MAY BE SOLD

BONNO BELONGS TO PADUCAH,
BUT CAN BE PURCHASED.

Mr. Gus Thompson, president of the Paducah baseball association says that Gus Bonno, the star twirler of the Kitty league, will be held in reserve by Paducah as he accepted advance money before he left Paducah
and after the season closed, from Mr.
Thompson, who tendered a check
which is now deposited in a local bank
as evidence that Bonno did accept it.
This is sufficient to hold him out if the bigger teams want him, but he may be sold.

PRISONERS TO WORK WHERE CITY SAYS

Is What Judge Reed Thinks
About it.

Filed a Written Opinion in Chain
Gang Suits—Alleged Forger
Held in Police Court.

NEWS OF OTHER COURTS

Circuit Judge Wm. Reed this morning filed his written judgment in the case of Sam Stone against the city of Paducah.

The suit was brought by Attorney
J. M. Worten, who has forty suits against the city for damages for working prisoners on the streets, to test
the validity of the city ordinance providing that prisoners be worked on the streets.

Attorney Worten could not get the matter into the court of appeals as soon as he wanted to and filed the Stone
ex parte petition to have the court act that it may immediately be taken to the appellate court. The city made itself a defendant and the case was regularly tried resulting in a judgment today holding the ordinance valid.

The judgment covers three pages
and in substance is as follows:

The city has ordinances providing for the duties of a city jailer, and assistant. The jailer is to keep the prisoners locked in except when his assistant has them out on the streets and the ordinance now enforced provide that prisoners shall be worked on the streets to serve out fines and because of the city's transfer to cities of the second class, Judge Reed holds that the ordinance were not invalidated. He states in his opinion that the legislature passed an act providing for prisoners of cities of the second class, to be worked in the work house or confined in city prison and "left it clear that it was the intention of the body to have the prisoners worked, and that the court thought it lay within the discretion of the city to fix the kind of work, whether in a workhouse or on the streets.

Attorney Worten will take immediate steps to have the matter appealed so that the appellate court act
at once and settle the question.

Mamie McTyre was today granted a divorce from D. C. McTyre.

O. T. Gordon was given a divorce from Annie Gordon.

A judgment for settlement was filed in the case of L. A. Nail against Q.
V. Nance.

Judge C. H. Bush, of Hopkinsville, who as special judge tried the case to determine the possession of the building occupied by Mr. W. B. McPherson, telephoned last evening that he would arrive in Paducah next week
and decide the case.

Judge Reed, in circuit court, has set the Marshall county local option case for trial Friday. This is a mandamus suit led by John Counts, of Paducah, against the county authorities in Marshall to compel them to accept his money and issue him a state license to open a saloon at Gilbertsville. The case has been on the docket several weeks, and will be heard Friday morning.

MRS. VERNAGUT'S WILL.

Judge Lightfoot has admitted to probate in county court the will of the late Mrs. Suzanne Vernagut, who died Saturday. The document was drawn December 24, 1903, and witnessed by August Brahm and John B.
Steel. She leaves all her property to her husband, Joseph Vernagut. Their adopted daughter, Lillie Bizot, is permitted to select what she wants out of the household furnishings. The husband is executor.

BROKE A BONE

BUT HE DID NOT KNOW IT FOR 24 HOURS.

Paul Rose, the four year old son of Mr. C. Rose, an employee of the Riggsberger mills, day before yesterday fell from a small earpenter's "horse"
and broke his pelvis girdle, but the accident was not discovered until last night when the little fellow began to suffer great pain and complain.

His parents knew that he had fallen from the horse but did not think he was injured as he showed no signs of being hurt. The break grew worse and the little fellow finally suffered so much that Dr. D. T. Stuart was summoned and on examination found the break. It necessitated putting the little fellow's body nearly entirely in a plaster cast. The break is a peculiar one and will require some time to heal.

J. J. READ RESIGNS

Will Become a Railroad Contractor and Quit Coal Business.

Mr. J. H. Gibbs, of Owensboro, Will Arrive Dec. 1st to Succeed Him.

Mr. Jeff J. Read, for the past eight or ten years local agent for the Central Coal and Iron Company, of Central City, Ky., has resigned his position effective December 1st, and will be succeeded by Mr. J. H. Gibbs, first of Owensboro, who arrives the first of the month to take charge.

Mr. Read resigned several weeks ago to engage exclusively in the railroad contracting but the company could not arrange to relieve him until now. He has been doing grading and other contracting for quite awhile, and intends now to do nothing else, and will make his headquarters to Paducah.

It is likely that the Central Coal and Iron Company is going to greatly enlarge its facilities here. It has closed its Owensboro office, according to the Messenger, and will go out of business there. Its manager, Mr. Gibbs, is transferred here, and it is understood that most of its teams and other equipment will also be transferred to Paducah, Owensboro to hereafter be supplied by the company through the retail dealers, and Paducah to be made a big shipping point.

EX-UNITED STATES SENATOR M. C. Butler from South Carolina, was Senator from that state for two terms. In a recent letter from Washington, D. WILL LIGHTFOOT TO STRETCH ROPE

Paducah Negro Again Convicted of Murder.

He Has Now Been Twice Convicted of Killing Roy Sloan at Woodstock.

VERDIOT TODAY AT MEMPHIS

County Attorney Eugene Graves this morning received a telegram from Memphis stating that William Lightfoot had been convicted of murder in the first degree, which means hanging.

The case was begun about a week ago, and was given to the jury yesterday. Attorney Graves prosecuted Lightfoot here and at the first trial, at Memphis, and was employed to assist in the present prosecution. Lightfoot is a negro formerly employed by the Illinois Central as brakeman, and was arrested in Paducah while on the pay train getting his money, for the murder of Roy Sloan January 17th, at Woodstock, Tenn.

The dead man was a white flagman who had been at work down about the Y. & M. V. and is supposed to have been on his way to Letchfield, Ky., to visit his brother, who is the I. C. agent there.

His dead body was found near the tracks at Woodstock, and he had apparently been struck in the head with a lantern and killed. The last time he was seen alive was when he was "deadheading" on a freight train, and it is alleged Lightfoot was with him.

The negro made a fight here to keep from being taken back to Tennessee, and many witnesses swore that Lightfoot was in Paducah at the time the murder was committed. Judge Sanders, who heard all the evidence in the case, was always in doubt as to the negro's guilt, but down in Memphis, apparently, Lightfoot's witnesses were "hot" credited, while the circumstantial evidence against him was accepted as true. Another thing, he did not have the means of getting witnesses to Memphis, and new depositions taken here tending to show his innocence, were not filed in the last trial.

The first trial was last January, and he was sentenced to hang. The supreme court in April reversed the sentence and Lightfoot was given another chance for his life. This trial came up last week and ended today by another death sentence.

Der German Cobbler

Mr. Vogelestein Drops in to See Hans and Give Him the News.

I VHAS putting a cement patch on a shoe der odder day when Mr. Vogelestein comes in and says: "Hans, I vhas in some troubles, and mebbe you can help me out. Do you offer haf some jaws uit your wife?"

"Of course," I said. "Do you sometimes say you wish you vhas neffer married?"

"Und dot if she don't behave herself you vill walk outdoors und don't come back?"

"Yes, it vhas dot vhay." "Und vhat happens den?"

"Vhell, me und my wife vhas good friends ageln."

"Dot don't help me any," says Mr. Vogelestein, mit some shakes of his head. "I haf some jaws mit my wife. She calls me more ash twenty bad names, und I box her ears. Dot makes her all der worse, und I say I vill leave der house. If I say I shall leave der house I must go, shan't I?"

"Of course."

"Must pack oop my things und walk out und wait for my wife to say she is sorry und beg me to come back?"

"Dot vhas der vhay."

"Vhell, now, you see how he vhas. My wife gets ahead of me. She packs oop her things und goes away before I can, und now if I don't be sorry und beg some pardons she vill not come home again. Hans, vhas dot right? Vhas it according to some law? Vhas dot any way to serve a kind und loving husband?"

"I don't pelief she vhas," I says. "My golly, no! I shall go by der courts; I shall go by der police; I shall call out der fire engines und raise a row. No wife vhas a bigger man dan her husband, not even in America."

Mr. Vogelestein slaps his leg und walks around und vhas mad, und it vhas seven minutes before he says: "Hans, vhat you pelief happens to my brudder-in-law?"

"Naype he beta on her wrong horse," I says.

"No, it vhas not dot. Now you keep it in mind. He vhas my brudder-in-law because I marries his sister. I haf an aunt, und dot brudder-in-law goes und marries her. A child vvas born last week, und now who am I to dot child? Vhat is dot child to me? Vhas my aunt my sister-in-law? Vhas my brudder-in-law my uncle? All der time when I walk around I keep asking myself, und every night I vvas all mixed oop und can't go to sleep. Spenk oop, you dunderhead, und tell me who I vhas?"

"You vhas mud," I says, und I pelief it vhas sooch a good joke dot I laugh und loud ash I can.

Mr. Vogelestein vvas und und goes outdoors, but pooty quick he vvas back again und says:

"Hans, my wife you vhas not der only fool in town. Three days ago I meet dot man Goblestrop. You know he vvas der man dot run oder a street car und killed two people. Vhell, we shink hands, und he says it vvas cold, und I says it vvas cold. Den he says: 'Vogelestein, do you pelief I can show you some blackberries in winter?'"

"Of course not," says I. "Vhell, you come oop to my house. I haf got a surprise for you. If I can't show you some blackberries in winter you can call me a liar."

"I goes mit Goblestrop. He lives more ash three miles away, und I pay street car fare for both. When we gets to his house he shows me blackberries—blackberries in a can—and he pokes me in der ribs und goes hat hat: 'Hans, vhas dot proper? Vhas it good society? Vhas it right to take advantage of an innocent man und make some fools of him?'"

"Vhat why don't you think of blackberries in a can?" I says.

"Why? Why? Why don't I think of an elephant oop a tree? Can I pelief dot somebody vill play me a trick like dot? Hhna, you vhas der biggest shakans in America!"

I don't any noddings, und Mr. Vogelestein vvas mad for ten minutes und likes to clean out my shop. By und by he feels better und says:

"I goes down by der Erie basin der odder day to see Schmidt about some green corn for next season. He vvas not in his office, und I stop in next door to ask about him. A man vvas writing at a desk, und pooty quick he says to me:

"Do you know about some poetry? 'I pelief I do.'"

"Vhell, if you can help me out I vvas much obliged. Please write me a verse."

"Und I sits down und writes: 'A woman who lives in Paducah. One time at her husband got mad, Und she thumps in der riffer. Und dics mit a shifter. Und nobody says it vvas aud."

"Dot vhas splendid," says dot man ash he reads my poetry, und we go out und take a drink together. By und by I ask him if dot poetry vhas for a child's book, und he says:

"No; it vhas a verse to put on my second wife's tombstone. She vvas dead two weeks."

"Now, Hans, look at me. Vhas dot man joking uit me? Does he pelief dot vhas good poetry, oder does he take me for some fool? I think und think, but I can't make her out."

"I guess he peliefs you vhas some fools," I says.

"Hh! How dare he? In ten minutes I vill go down und call him feefy bad names und fight him for 10 cents!"

"I shall show him who vhas der fool! By golly, Hans, if I vvas an elephant in Central park I would break loose und kill more ash twenty people!"

Mr. Vogelestein goes outdoors und throws a snowball at a dog, und then he comes back again he says:

"Once more, Hans. I goes by der bank der odder day mit a check, und der cashier looks at it und says: 'Vhas you Vogelestein?'"

"Of course."

"Why vhas you Vogelestein?"

"Because I vhasn't Dunderwinkle."

"Don't try some shokes on me. You must bring peoples who knows you."

"Vhell, I bring more ash ten peoples to dot bank, und all of 'em say I vvas Vogelestein. It takes me two days, und when I asks dot cashier if he vhas satisfied he says: 'Yes, I guess your name vvas Vogelestein.'"

"Und you vill gif me der money?"

THE POTTSTVILLE BANK

Copyright, 1904 by T. C. McClure.

I was one of the stockholders of the Pottsville bank, and one night at midnight I was awakened by some one laying a hand on me and whispering in my ear. When I opened my eyes I found a light in the room, and bending over me and having a pistol in his right hand was a man whose face was hidden by a black cambric mask. It was half a minute before I got my full senses, and then I heard him saying: "Make no outcry or you are a dead man! You must get up and dress."

The lamp had been lighted, and the door leading out into the hall was wide open. Such a thing as burglary was almost unknown in the annals of Pottsville, and to wake up from a sound sleep and find a couple of burglars in my room made me dumb with surprise.

"You must dress and come with us. Your wife is sound asleep, and if you wake her up you must take the consequences. Come, now; we are in a hurry."

The hall door was slightly ajar, and as we passed through it and outdoors I saw that entrance to the house had been gained by cutting a panel out of the door. We walked straight down to the gate and out of it and turned to the left and when quite clear of the grounds came to a horse and cart in the keeping of a third man. As we halted, the tallest of the trio said: "I am glad to see that you are no fool. If you continue to act sensibly all will be well."

"But what does this mean?" I demanded.

"It means that we want the money in the Pottsville bank and that you are to help us get it."

"Never! If that's your game, you are left."

"But you will help us," he exclaimed, and there was a sort of hiss in his voice that reminded me of an angry serpent. "Yes, you will help us, or your wife will never see you alive again. Into the cart with you!"

I obeyed the order, and two of the men took seats beside me, and the other vanished in the darkness. The men with me lighted cigars and offered me one as we drove away. I shook my head, and the tall man said: "Just as you wish. You know Chapman, cashier of the bank, of course?"

"Yes."

"He alone has a key to the vaults. We can't get into his house on account of the burglar alarm, and you must call him out. We will accompany you to the house and stand by you while you ring the bell. Chapman will probably call to you from the window of his room. You must tell him that there is something wrong at the bank and get him to dress and come down. His wife is away, and so we have everything in our favor. You may think to play us a game. If you try it on we will kill you offhand. Now, come on."

We took the middle of the street, and the men walked on each side of me, and each one of them carried a pistol in his hand.

When we reached Chapman's house we softly advanced to the front door, and as I rang the bell the men posted themselves on either side.

Up went a second story window at the first ring, and Chapman put his head out and asked what we wanted. I replied that there was trouble at the bank, and without asking for details he speedily dressed and came down. The men had him in a moment, as he was as completely taken by surprise as I had been, and had he made any struggle he would have been roughly used.

The thought that he must give up the $40,000 lying in the vaults gave him a desperate feeling, but he restrained himself and hoped that something might occur.

Not a soul did we meet as we walked to the bank, but when almost there a stray dog came running up to us. One of the men gave him a kick, and he ran howling away; but, unnoticed by anybody, he sneaked back and entered the building with us. The first move made after we entered was to pull down the curtains and strike a light. When we could see to move about, the tall man said to Chapman:

"You have the keys, and I want you to open the vault. We are after the money and don't want to hurt either of you."

Chapman looked around in despair and then unlocked the door of the vault and pulled it halfway open. The two men crowded forward to enter, seeming to forget us for the moment, and one of them pulled a bag from under his vest and set the light on the floor.

All of a sudden, and with no seeming excuse for it, the dog, who had waited near the front door, set up a howl and came rushing back at us in a savage manner. We were all startled and upset, and in the confusion Chapman and I did a thing we were never able to explain afterward.

We hurried ourselves against the door and cried so quickly that neither of the burglars had time to fire a shot when we had them snuff out in prison. All we had to do was to arouse the town and open the door in the presence of armed men, and they came humbly enough to go to trial and receive a sentence of ten years apiece. The third man had not accompanied us to the village and the bank and therefore made good his escape.

As for the dog, he proved to be one of the village curs, but the Pottsville bank adopted him from that night on and saw that he wanted for nothing during the rest of his canine life.

THE COLONEL'S MISTAKE.

Colonel Hazzard Devlin of Massillon, O., a grizzled veteran of the civil war, who was in town last week, relates this interesting reminiscence:

While at the Gibson House in Cincinnati he was accosted by a well dressed man in an elevator, who looked at him closely a moment and asked:

"Ain't you Colonel Devlin, formerly of the Ohio Infantry?"

"Yes, sir," replied the colonel.

"Do you remember that when your regiment was near Ben Hilde, Ark., a few days before the big battle there a rough looking bushwhacker was brought into camp one morning and condemned to be shot as a spy?"

"I remember the incident perfectly."

"And you interfered and saved the poor devil's life?"

"Yes; I have a distinct recollection of that."

"Well, colonel," said the other, with strong feeling, "you made a thundering big mistake. That man was hung in Arizona more'n twenty years ago for stealing a horse!"—Chicago Tribune.

Speed.

Representative Shilley of Pennsylvania has while renewing as a chauffeur. Some one asked him yesterday how fast he had ever driven his machine.

"Up in Pennsylvania one day last summer," he said, "I rode so fast along a narrow road, upon one side of which was a cornfield and on the other a field of beans, that the suction of my auto literally covered me with sweat."

Cardigan

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Copyright, 1901, by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

"The East India company, floundering about with the nonimportation bill in its gullet, found itself owing the government $1,000,000, with 17,000,000 pounds of moidore on its hands."

"Nobody likes bankruptcy, so off go the East India gentlemen with their petition to parliament for permission to export their tea to America free of duty, and so put it in the power of the company to sell tea here cheaper than in England. And now I ask you, gentlemen, whether in all these broad colonies there are not some few men whose motives are other than selfish?"

"Your answers must be 'Yes,' because the colonists themselves so answered when they turned the Gaspere, when they gathered at Griffin's wharf and made tea enough for the world to drink—when John Lamb set his back to the portcullis of the fort and the tea commissioners ran like rabbits!"

"That forbids that I, a humble loyal subject of my king, should ever bear out the work of rebels or traitors, but I solemnly say to you that the rebels and traitors are not the counterfeit Indians of Griffin's wharf, nor the men who fired the Gaspere adrift from spirit to contempt, nor that man who set his back to the fort in New York! But they are those who whisper evil to my king at St. James, and may God have mercy on their souls!"

None dared interrupt him. The officers watched him silently, this great man—this great Irishman who had been the sole architect of his own greatness, this great American who saw what we even now cannot see as clearly as he did.

There he sat, dumb, eyes on vacancy, a plain man, a baronet of the British realm, a member of the king's council, a major general of militia and the superintendent of the Indian department in North America; a plain man, but a vast host holder, the one man in America trusted implicitly by the Indians, a man whose influence was enormous, a man who was as simple as a child, as truthful as a child, as kind as the Samaritan who passed not on the other side.

There was a step at the door. Mr. Duncan spoke in a low tone with the orderly, then returned to Sir William.

"The Indian belt bearer is at the blackhouse, sir," he said.

Sir William rose. The officers made their adieus and left. Only Sir William, Mistress May, Silver Heels and I remained in the dining hall.

The baronet looked across at Mistress Molly, and a smile touched his eyes.

She took Silver Heels by the hand and quietly left the room.

"Michael," said Sir William, "listen closely, but remain silent concerning what this belt bearer has to say. My honor is at stake, my son, promise me!"

"I promise, sir," said I under my breath.

The next moment the door behind me opened, and the Indian stole into the room.

For a space the two stood face to face in silence. Then the belt bearer, looking warily around at the empty room, asked why Chief Warragh received his brother alone.

"My brother comes alone," replied Sir William, with emphasis. "It is the custom of the Cayuga to send three with each belt. Does my brother bear but a fragment of one belt? Or does he think us of little consequence, that he comes without attendants?"

"I bear three belts," said the Indian haughtily. "Nine of my people started from the Ohio. I alone live."

Sir William bowed gravely and, motioning me to be seated, drew up an armchair of velvet and sat down, folding his arms in silence.

Then for the first time in my life I sat in a decorative council fire and listened to an orator of those masters of oratory, the people of the Six Nations. Dignified, clear of gesture, clean, yet somewhat and overbearing of speech, the Cayuga, facing the baronet, related briefly his name, Quider, which in Iroquois means Peter; his tribe, which was the tribe of the Wolf, the totem being plain on his breast. He spoke of his journey from the Ohio, the loss of the eight who had started with him, all dying from the smallpox within a week. He spoke respectfully of Sir William as the one man who had protected the Six Nations from unjust laws, from incursions, from white men's violence and deception. He admitted that Sir William was the only man in America who today retained the absolute trust and confidence of the Indians, adding that it was for this reason that he had come.

And then he began his brief speech, drawing from his pouch a black belt of wampum:

"Brother, with this belt we breathe upon the elders who are asleep, and we cause the council fire to burn in this place and on the Ohio, which are our proper fireplaces. With this belt we sweep this fireplace clean, removing from it all that is impure, that we may sit around it as brothers."

"Brother, the unhappy oppression of our brethren by Colonel Cressap's men near the Ohio carrying place is the occasion for our coming here. Our nation would not be at rest nor easy until they had spoken to you about it. They have now spoken with this belt."

"Brother, what are we to do? Lord Dunmore will not hear us. Colonel Cressap and his men, to whom we have done no harm, are coming to clear the forest and cross our free path which lies from St. Sacrement to the Ohio, and which path our brother's belt, which we still possess, have long since swept clear. What shall we do? Instead of holding our knives we have come to our brother Warragh. Instead of seeking our kin, the Mohawk and the Oneida, with painted war belts to throw between us and them, we come to our brother and ask him by this belt what is left for us to do. Our brothers have taught us there is a God. Teach us he is a just God—by this belt."

During this speech Sir William sat as still as death, neither by glance nor gesture nor change of color betraying the surprise, indignation and alarm which this exposure of Colonel Cressap's doings caused him.

As for me, I of course vaguely understood the breach of faith committed by Colonel Cressap in invading the land of our allies and the danger we might run should the Cayuga chief go to our Mohawks and Oneidas with war belts and inflammatory appeals for vengeance on Cressap and his men.

That he had intended come to us, braving all dangers, losing indeed all his comrades, on this mission of peace, most splendidly attested to the power and influence of Sir William among these savages, whose first instinct is to draw the hatchet and begin the horrid vengeance which they consider their right when unjustly molested.

It is seldom the custom to reply to a speech before the following day. Custom and tradition rule among the Six Nations.

I was prepared, therefore, when Sir William, holding in his right hand the three belts of wampum, rose and thanked the Cayuga for his talk, praising him and his tribe for resorting to arbitration instead of the hatchet, and promising an answer on the morrow.

The Cayuga listened in silence, then remaining his blanket turned on his head and passed slowly and noiselessly from the room, leaving Sir William standing beside the armchair, and me erect in the embrasure of the entrance.

I bent and arranged the three belts on the table near him.

"Thank you, Michael," he said heartily, "and I must say that in this matter of the Cayuga you have conducted admirably. Mr. Duncan has told me all; it was wisely done. Had you received the Cayuga with less welcome or more suspicion, or had you met him haughtily, I do not doubt that he would have made mischief for me among my Mohawks."

"He had war sticks painted red in his pouch, sir," I replied.

"No doubt! No doubt! And a red war belt, too, belied! They were meant for my Mohawks had he met with a robust hero. Oh, I know them, Michael, I know them. A painted war belt during between that Cayuga and the sachems of my Mohawks would have set the whole Six Nations—save, perhaps, the Oneidas—against my right and hatchet for Cressap and his men!"

Sir William struck the mahogany table with clenched fist.

"Hang Cressap," he cried, in one of his familiar fits of fury, "fits which were never witnessed outside his family circle. 'Hang the fatuous fool to go a-meddling with the Cayugas in their own lands, held by them in solemn covenant forever inviolate! What does the sorry ass want? A border war, with all this trouble between king and colonies hatchet? Does Colonel Cressap not know that a single scalp taken from the Cayugas will set the Six Nations on fire—aye, the Lenape too?"

Sir William slapped the table again with the flat of his hand.

"Look, Michael. Should war come between king and colonies, neither king nor colonies should forget that our frontiers are crowded with thousands of savages who, if wrongly treated, will remain neutral and ineffective. Yet here is this Indian Cressap, on the very eve of a struggle with the greatest power in the world, turning the savages against the colonies by his empty threats on the Ohio!"

"But," said I, "in his blindness and folly Colonel Cressap is throwing into our arms those very savages as allies."

Sir William stopped short and stared at me with cold, steady eyes.

"Michael," said he presently, "when this war comes as surely it will come—choose which cause you will embrace and then stand by it to the end. As for me, I cannot believe that God would let me live to see such a war, that he would leave me to choose between the king who has honored me and nine other people in this dear land of mine."

He raised his head and passed one hand over his eyes.

"But should he, in his wisdom demand that I choose, and if the sorrow kills me not, then, when the time comes, I shall choose."

"Which way, sir?" I said in a sort of gasp.

But he only answered, "Wait!"

Stupefied, I watched him. It had never entered my head that there could be

DOWNWARD COURSE.

Fast Being Realized by Paducah People.

A little backache at first. Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak.

Urinary disorders quickly follow. Diabetes and finally Bright's disease.

Don't take this course. Follow the advice of a Paducah citizen.

H. L. Blackford, of 615 Washington street, carpenter by trade, says:

"It occurred to me when reading a notice about Doan's Kidney Pills that if they performed half what they promised they might cure my kidney complaint which annoyed me in shape of backache. I went to Duttois Kolb & Co.'s drug store, got a box and commenced the treatment. If it had not benefited me I never would have bought a second, and if the second had not brought undoubted results I could not be induced to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to friends and acquaintances personally, much less publicly."

any course save unquestioned loyalty to the king in all things; that there could be any doubt or hesitation or pondering or praying for light when it came time to choose between king and rebel.

I recalled what Sir William had said to me in the schoolroom. Putting this with what he now said, or left unsaid, together with his anger at Colonel Cressap for endangering the peace between the Indians and the colonies, I came to the frightened conclusion that Sir William's loyalty might be questioned. But by whom? Who in America was great enough to call Sir William to account? Not Governor Tryon; not Lord Dunmore; not General Tige.

Feeling as though the bottom had fallen out of something, I sat there, my fascinated eyes never leaving Sir William's somber face.

Later, still attired in my new uniform, I met Silver Heels.

"I had not thought that you were so nearly a man to be appointed corner of horse," said she.

"And you," said I magnanimously, "are almost a woman." But I said it from courtesy, not because I believed it.

"Yes," she replied indifferently; "maids may wed at sixteen years."

"Well!" I repeated, laughing outright.

"Aye. Mother was a bride at sixteen."

I was silent in my effort to digest such an absurd idea. Silver Heels merrily in another year! I looked at the frail yet full arm, half bared, the slender neck, the round, clear hazel eyes, the faintly smiling mouth, which was the mouth of a child. Silver Heels well! The idea was grotesque. It was also displeasing.

Not to rebuff her with scorn, I said: "Indeed, you are quite a woman. Perhaps in a year you will be one! Who knows? For a year is such a long, long time, Silver Heels."

"It is a very long time," she admitted.

"And to love one must be quite old," said I.

RIGHT SMART O' FUN

(Original.)

Sam Singleton was an honest, good natured country boy who became tired of being teased by his father, an overbearing man. Besides, old Singleton was parsimonious and wouldn't even pay his son the wages he gave the hired help. Of course the old man was rich. Stingy people always grow rich. But what bothered Sam was that his father wanted him to marry Farmer Hudgson's daughter, because Hudgson was as rich as himself. Molly Hudgson was a very unattractive young woman, and Sam would have none of her.

So one fine morning in June Sam was musing on the farm, and a young man who might have been his twin brother, calling himself Hob Hurton, applied for work to John Ketchum, whose unpretentious farm lay twenty miles distant. The harvesting was on and men were hard to get, therefore Hob Hurton was engaged.

Now, it happened that Farmer Hurton had a daughter Bessie, one of six children, who was as pretty as a ripe peach hanging in August sunlight, and Hurton (or Sam Singleton) was as much smitten with her as he had been regarded by Molly Hudgson. There was something winning about the young man, and Bessie was as much attracted to him as he was to her.

Bessie was a quiet little miss, kind, and was so prudent as to her meetings with Sam that her father, especially since he was busy getting in the crops, knew nothing of what was going on till it was too late. Then he discharged the interloper and put his daughter under strict watch. He had nothing against Sam, mind you, except that he belonged to that uncertain class, extra farm hands, many of whom are a trifle shiftless. Ketchum would have been glad enough to marry his daughter to a man possessed of a few acres, smitten with her as he had been, and a roving farm hand—never.

Well, Bessie remained the same dutiful child, so dutiful and unresisting that one would suppose butter wouldn't melt in her mouth. But one morning in October, when a white frost first covered the ground, her mother, going to the spring home for some honey, cast her eye up the road and saw her dutiful daughter jump a fence, get into a buggy with the discharged farm hand and ride away.

"In," she called to her husband, who at the moment came out of the barn door. "Bessie's gone away with that mischievous Hurton fellow! I just seen her get into a wagon with him up yonder."

Without a word Farmer Ketchum turned back into the barn and began to harness up. The only light conveyance he had was out with his only remaining good roadster. He put the next horse, a slow one, into a two-seated heavy wagon and drove away in the direction the fugitives had taken.

Now, the county seat lay ten miles away, midway between the Ketchum and Singleton farms. Sam was bent on reaching it and a justice whom he hoped to find there, with a view to a speedy marriage. He didn't know their flight had been discovered and didn't move in a tearing hurry till he heard a familiar creak behind; then he laid on the stump of a whip, and the race began. Three-quarters of an hour later, after various vicissitudes and delays to both pursued and pursuer, the young couple dashed up to the courthouse, jumped from the buggy and ran up the steps.

As soon as the loungers saw the couple drive up in such haste they knew there was a runaway match. Elders always have the sympathy of observers on their side, and in a twinkling every lounge became a swift footed messenger hunting for the justice who was not in his office. Sam and Bessie had scarcely reached the room where the good man worked when old Ketchum drove up and like a whirlwind dashed up the courthouse steps.

"Tie in there!" exclaimed a lounge, pointing to the open door of a vault. The couple did so, and the door was closed, save a crack for air. In a few moments Ketchum poked his head in at the door and, seeing only one man looking out the window and another reading a newspaper, went on through the building in his search. Meanwhile the justice arrived, and the conditions were explained to him. Since the oppressive marriage service was liable to interruption in the office, the justice went into the vault. There was no light there, and he was obliged to proceed from memory. When nearly through he heard a commotion in the office. Some one had told Ketchum what was going on in the vault. The two men in the office were hurrying the way, and the old man was fighting for an entrance.

"Feel for her hand," exclaimed the justice. "Got it? All right. I pronounce you man and wife."

When the couple came out and Farmer Ketchum learned that his daughter had married the heir to the Singleton farm he asked Sam why he hadn't told him and saved all the fuss. "Wouldn't a," trusted father any more's you," replied Sam. "Besides, there's right smart o' fun in a runaway."

Farmer Singleton was as rampant about the marriage as Farmer Ketchum was secretly delighted. Singleton repudiated his son and made a will leaving all he possessed to charity, but time softened him, and he tore the will up and, going to Ketchum, with whom the young couple were living, made an arrangement with him to reinstate his son provided Ketchum would give his daughter a dot. This Ketchum was unable to do, whereupon Singleton concluded to take the couple entirely under his special protection.

Use Shoffner's Sure Cure

The Great Tonic and Blood Purifier—Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Catarrh.

It is a trite and true saying that the "blood is the life." Now where does the blood come from? Everybody knows, or should know, that it comes from the nutritive elements extracted by the stomach from the food we eat. If the digestive organs do not perform their functions by reason of disease germs, there is no nutrition extracted, and the food might better be thrown in the dump to decay and breed germs in the open air than to remain in the stomach and become a rotten, putrid mass, as it naturally does if there is no digestion. No disease germ can live and find lodgment in a human body that uses the Shoffner's Sure Cure. Price $1.00.

FLIES STAY LATE

MANY PEOPLE IN PADUCAH NOTICE HOW THEY LINGER.

Those Paducahans who have observed how late the house-flies are lingering this year will see from the following, taken from the Courier-Journal, that other cities as well as Paducah have a late crop of flies:

"Fly paper on November 20! What do you think of that? Yet I am selling more of the sticky messy stuff than I have sold in the same length of time during the summer months. Fly paper and cough medicine. That is what we are selling most of the past few days. Who ever heard of flies in November?"

"A Louisville druggist thus delivered himself yesterday afternoon and called attention to a fact that is not generally known. Although the public knows that flies are plentiful, few would hardly believe that more fly paper has been sold in Louisville during the past three days than during any other three days in the past year. The reason for this remarkable condition is the warm weather which has been the feature of the month. The temperature has been high in the day time and the result has been a myriad of flies. They have hatched out and developed in a short time, but they are active and the fly paper is almost a necessity."

BOARD OF WORKS

WILL CONSIDER A NUMBER OF MATTERS TODAY.

The board of public works will meet this afternoon in regular session at 4 o'clock at the city hall.

The execution of the contract for building second street from Broadway to Kentucky avenue, will come up and also will the matter of repairing the sewerage pump house before high water comes. Members of the board this morning visited the pump house to see what was needed in the way of repairs and will formulate report of the material needed.

The matter of putting in sewers from First to Second street on Kentucky avenue will also come up today. Possibly the most important thing to come up for consideration is that of deciding on repairing and enlarging the light plant or remodeling the old one. The board has never gotten together to formulate a report and is expected to do so at today's meeting.

FIREMEN BUSY

CHIEF WOOD IS SHOWING THEM ABOUT THE CITY.

Chief Wood, of the fire department, is every day taking a detail of firemen out to visit business houses downtown for the purpose of getting acquainted with their location and the best means of reaching them, and getting into them in case of fire.

The chief requests all merchants and others to extend to his firemen when they call on such a mission, the courtesy of a trip through the building, if requested. He expects to make the members of the fire department familiar with every building in the business section in this way.

PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY.

William O. Ellington, of Calver City, Marshall county, this morning filed a petition in bankruptcy, giving liabilities to the amount of $530 with no assets. He owes no Paducah people.

Mrs. Ned Baker went to Eddyville today at noon to visit.

AFTER RAILROAD

A Committee Goes to See About Better Facilities.

Messrs. W. B. Kennedy and Oscar Hank, of Paducah, are on the Committee.

There has been a complaint by both the shippers and the warehousemen of the Mayfield tobacco market for quite a while, about the poor facilities for handling tobacco there. The I. C. has been asked to give the tobacco market there better facilities but so far it has not complied. Some of the leading business men together with the large tobacco dealers have now taken the matter up and are negotiating in earnest.

H. C. Neale and T. J. Myles, of Mayfield, and W. B. Kennedy and Oscar Hank, of Paducah, have gone to Louisville, where they will meet Mr. C. C. Cameron, general freight agent of the I. C. railroad company, today for the purpose of showing him the necessity of greater railroad facilities at that place.

They will ask for more floor space at the depot at Mayfield, and the importance of putting in another pair of scales. They claim that the business there is greatly neglected and that some time the tobacco is forced to remain there two or three weeks after the time it should be shipped.

NOTHING DONE YET.

Many of the gardeners and hucksters are complaining over the report that they will not be allowed to sell inside the new market house. It is reported that the new market house ordinance will exclude everyone but the butchers, but this has not been settled. The boards may refuse to pass such an ordinance when it comes up, and until it comes up no one can tell what is to be done.

EVERGREEN CIRCLE.

There will be a Thanksgiving meeting of Evergreen Circle No. 13, at the hall Tuesday afternoon, 2:30. All circle is urged to be present as there will be a Thanksgiving surprise.
